

National Action Plan 2013 – 2014

Early Childhood Care and Education

Winning for Children: A Shared Commitment

April 2013

Foreword

The right of all young children to develop to their full potential, to have their intrinsic value recognized, to have their education and care facilitated by competent, caring and knowledgeable adults, can never be denied, if we believe in their inestimable worth as the future of our society. For their growth and development, they deserve careful educational, social and health attention and intervention from the earliest age.

This is enshrined in our country's vision for our young children, which is boldly set out in the Seychelles Framework for Early Childhood Care and Education. This policy document, entitled "Winning for Children: A Shared Commitment", also lays down the principles and goals for overall children's development in the early childhood stage.

Through the ECCE National Action Plan we have translated our vision into action. The plan defines what strategies we will use, where we will focus our resources and how we will work together to achieve the desired outcomes. The plan has been developed through involvement and consultation with stakeholders and partners, who have strong interests in the well being of our young children and with whom we consider it vital to continue working in close collaboration in the implementation of the action plan.

I would like to thank all those who took part in our consultative sessions and offered their valuable insights, ideas and experiences. They have contributed largely to enriching the planning and development process and without them we would not have been able to produce this document that will allow us to bridge gaps, address challenges and build on existing good practices in early childhood development.

The heart of our mission, our integrated mandate means that during this two-year period and beyond, we will all work together as a team, for the strategies adopted in the plan will only be successfully implemented through our shared commitment and collaborated and coordinated actions.

I warmly encourage all stakeholders and partners to contribute actively, positively and innovatively to the programmes, projects and services across all sectors for the benefit of our young children. It is only in this way that further progress can best be made towards realizing our common vision "A winning start in life for all children in Seychelles".

Danny Faure
Vice President of the Republic of Seychelles

Acknowledgements

This National Action Plan represents the collective efforts of a large number of people who have provided leadership, support, advice, documentary and other contributions. We would like to thank in particular:

- The Vice President and members of the High Level ECCE Policy Committee for ensuring that the priorities and strategies in the framework document are translated into action.
- The Chairperson and members of the Co-ordinating Committee for ensuring that the plans reflect an integrated approach and encouraging the involvement of all stakeholders and partners.
- The ECCE Advisory Council for providing guidance and advice on the plans.
- The Chairpersons and members of the sectoral Technical Teams for their hard work in developing the action plans in response to the requirements of the ECCE Framework.
- Dr. M.T. Purvis, the local consultant for drafting the National Action Plan.
- The National Early Childhood Care and Education Trust Fund for financial support.
- The Senior Management Teams of line ministries for their technical input and ensuring that their plans are in line with their Ministries' visions.
- Dr. Andre Leste, the local consultant for technical assistance.
- The Participants of the Validation Workshop for their active engagement and valuable contributions.
- All secretarial staff for clerical and administrative support.

Glossary

Active learning: an approach to learning and teaching in which students engage with the materials they study through reading, writing, talking, listening, reflecting and solving problems. This enables them to develop higher-order thinking skills such as analysis, synthesis and evaluation. One unique characteristic of active learning is that the teacher acts as a guide and facilitator of the education process rather than as the sole source of information.

Child-centred methodology: refers to the philosophy that learning must make sense to the child if it is to be effective and meaningful. Thus learning has to be focused on each student's needs, abilities, interests, and learning styles, placing the teacher as a facilitator of learning. Student voice is an important aspect of this methodology; a child's point of view has to be respected, enabling them to become active and responsible participants in their own learning.

Early Childhood Care and Education: services and programmes that facilitate the holistic development of children from 0 to 7+ years, encompassing child and maternal health, nutrition, safety, security, learning and early stimulation, legal, social, economic and emotional protection.

Early childhood: the period from birth to 7+ years, a period when there is a particularly high level of brain growth, which lays the foundation for subsequent development and learning.

Holistic development: a view of child development that considers cognitive, social, cultural, physical, emotional, and spiritual dimensions of human development as closely interwoven and forming an integral whole. Thus a child's whole context - the physical surroundings, the emotional context, relationships with others, and her/his immediate needs at any one time may affect and modify how a particular experience contributes to the child's development.

Rights based approach: an approach to services and programmes that considers and respects the child as a rights holder who has claims with regard to those (parents, care givers, ECCE professionals, the state, the community...) who have the obligations to ensure the fulfillment of those rights (the duty bearers). The duty bearers have an obligation to respect, protect and fulfill those rights, and to help the child as rights holder to develop the capacity to claim the rights and exercise responsibility in doing so.

Part 1

Introduction to the National Action Plan

The Early Childhood Care and Education Framework – *Winning for Children: A shared commitment (2011) provides an innovative and comprehensive system for developing better integrated and co-ordinated early childhood services nationally, so that all young children may develop their potential to the fullest. It sets out the underlying Principles of ECCE in Seychelles and our vision for children; it outlines the national policy goals and strategies and calls for the development of a national plan of action for ECCE. The Framework defines ‘Early Childhood’ as the period from birth to 7+ years, a period when there is a particularly high level of brain growth, laying the foundation for subsequent development and learning. Early Childhood Care and Education services and programmes are seen as encompassing health, nutrition, safety, security and learning which all contribute to the holistic development of the child.

This National Action Plan for Early Childhood Care and Education, 2013 - 2014 has been developed in response to the Framework’s call for a plan of action for ECCE. It aims to strengthen ECCE through adopting a more coherent and holistic approach across sectors, placing the child at the centre of all the expected outcomes. The national action planning process leading to this plan took place in the context of Seychelles’ adoption of the Moscow Framework of Action and Co-operation, following the first World Conference on ECCE organized by UNESCO in September 2010. Further to Seychelles commitment to implementing the Moscow Framework, the Seychelles ECCE Framework was developed and it was endorsed by all stakeholder ministries in Oct 2011.

The National Action Plan for ECCE, 2013 -2014 gives an overview of the ECCE Framework, its values, principles and vision as well as the key priorities/goals and strategies that lead to the Action Plans in Part 2. It outlines the methodology used in the action planning process and provides detailed action plans for selected strategies under each of the nine key priorities of the ECCE Framework. It provides an implementation strategy, including monitoring and evaluation mechanisms that will need to be put in place. Finally it outlines the critical success factors that will ensure the successful implementation of this National Action Plan.

The Conceptual Framework of the National Action Plan for ECCE

This National Action Plan for ECCE emanates from the ECCE Framework. It is therefore guided by the overall principles and values of the Framework and it intends to put into action a number of short term strategies outlined therein, for the period 2013 to 2014.

This section reiterates the purposes, values, principles, vision and goals of the Framework, in order to reinforce the links between those various components and the strategies and action plans that follow in Part 2.

The national ECCE framework has the following purposes:

The ECCE Framework is underpinned by the values and principles of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, other related conventions, the Seychelles Constitution and other national legal frameworks.

In particular it highlights the following values:

- Care and education form part of a continuum of learning experiences that will bring about the holistic development of the child.
- All children have a right to equal access to high quality ECCE services.
- Children have a voice and must be heard in matters that concern them.
- Children are active and independent learners and they do this through exploration, discovery, and while making productive and enriching connections with adults and other children.
- Well-educated and well-trained ECCE professionals represent a crucial factor in providing high quality ECCE.
- Adults have a duty to ensure that the rights and needs of children are met.

In the light of these values nine Principles guide all developments in ECCE in Seychelles:

Principle 1: Centrality of the Child

The child and his or her developmental needs must remain at the centre of all our planning and programming efforts. All our energies should be directed at nurturing the best possible outcomes for the child in all areas of development including the cognitive, physical, emotional, social and spiritual dimensions. The focus on children must be constant and not blurred by conflicting agendas and competition among those responsible for delivering services to children.

Principle 2: Child as a Right Holder

Children as members of society have a number of inherent rights which are guaranteed by our Constitution and international treaties such as the Convention on the Rights of the Child. The CRC Committee's General Comment, entitled 'Implementing Childs Rights in Early Childhood' (OHCHR, 2005) gives clear understanding of the rights of all young children and the obligations of parties to fulfill them. These rights are not negotiable. It is the duty of adults and all professionals who work with children to champion these rights and treat all children with respect.

We must ensure that we plan, act and evaluate in accordance with the best interests of the child. All child related policies, frameworks and programmes must be in compliance with the articles of the CRC.

Principle 3: Family Involvement

The family has a pivotal role to play in the care and education of young children. This is recognized in our Constitution, policy documents, interventions and established structures. This involvement is especially crucial at early childhood level in order to facilitate a smooth transition from home to 'outside home care and education'. Parents have the right to be represented on school boards and councils, to have access to information related to their children, to be informed of what happens, to access premises and participate in organized activities.

Communities and partners will build family friendly environments and educate parents to enable them to discharge these roles meaningfully. Special efforts will be made to welcome, value and support fathers in their parenting roles. Employers and businesses will support parenting responsibilities and provide child friendly incentives.

Principle 4: Coordination and Collaboration

The family, the school and the community have important and complementary roles to play in nurturing healthy, creative and self confident children who will become responsible and productive citizens in the future. The task is too complex for anyone to do alone. While the family remains the children's first educators, the school and the community will support the family and work together to make all children 'winners'.

Coordination is also important for the many agencies whose programmes affect young children. Services must be delivered in a coordinated and coherent manner in the best interest of the child. The sharing of professional information is a necessary prerequisite for smooth transitions and continuity in programmes. However, because of the very confidential nature of health information, it is important that strict protocols are followed and parental consent for sharing of information sought. All partners must work collaboratively to promote the growth of happy, healthy, and self-confident children.

Principle 5: Long Term Sustainability

In order to sustain the growth and development of EC initiatives, there needs to be national awareness of the importance of early childhood care and education and firm commitment to funding from both the state and the private sector on a long term basis.

Long term sustainability will be enhanced by sharing experiences nationally and internationally and building on existing resources, relationships and support systems.

Principle 6: Value of Play

The value of play for learning is constantly being reinforced by new research, and our curriculum frameworks recognize the importance of play and active learning in the early years. The constant pressure to move towards early structured and rigid learning programmes however, jeopardises this principle. We need to ensure that parents, EC professionals and all partners have a common understanding of the contribution of play in building learning, confidence and social competence.

This principle also places an obligation on Government, communities, private sector and all providers of services to ensure that EC settings are well resourced and provide stimulating play based experiences.

Principle 7: Accountability

Children are vulnerable at this age and need to be protected. High quality standards in all aspects of EC provision are needed to safeguard all children. These standards must be age appropriate, consistent and comparable across the whole range of EC provision.

Accountability also assumes that these standards are fully implemented. This requires the setting up of effective monitoring and evaluation mechanisms, and training to ensure compliance and public reporting of results.

Principle 8: Evaluation and data collection

Data and evidence are needed to monitor outcomes, advance understanding of local situations and guide effective policy response. Data on early childhood is gathered at different sources using diverse indicators. There are currently many gaps and inconsistencies in data gathering across the different services, and limited research on their impact. An integrated and comprehensive information system is one that will provide reliable and up to date data on all indicators and evidence of how programmes and services are impacting on children's outcomes. It will provide the information platform for evidence based policies.

Principle 9: Cultural Appropriateness

Good early childhood programmes must take into account the realities of the Seychellois culture and parenting practices. It must build on the positive aspects of care and nurturing that takes place in the home so that all children experience a smooth transition to more structured out-of-home settings.

As we move towards an increasingly pluralistic society, all early childhood workers must be trained to be sensitive to the child's socio cultural background, to respect diversity by valuing all types of families, to be respectful of cultures while challenging harmful practices that go against the best interests of the child.

The use of the mother tongue as the language of instruction in crèche, Primary 1 and Primary 2 provides children with the opportunity to develop their self esteem and confidence while learning a second and third language. The use of the mother tongue ensures that the child's adaptation to school takes place smoothly and naturally and that no child is disadvantaged in using language as a tool for formal learning. Its value and efficiency needs to be recognized and demonstrated through research and comparative studies. The use of the mother tongue is also an important vehicle for strengthening communication with parents and encouraging their participation in their children's learning.

The above Principles also provide benchmarks against which the indicators of success will be measured.

The vision for ECCE is:

A winning start in life for all children in Seychelles

'A winning start'= 'the right to a high quality, comprehensive and integrated system of early childhood care and education from conception onwards'.

This vision implies the involvement of all ECCE stakeholders, namely parents and guardians, ECCE professionals, members of the community and society. Hence:

Our vision for parents and guardians: Confident and knowledgeable parents who engage constructively with professionals in the best interest of the child.

Our vision for our workforce and partners: Valued and skilled professionals working together innovatively for the greater success of all children and families.

Our vision for our Communities: Committed and vibrant communities providing strong family support and enabling environments for children's overall development.

Our vision for our society: a 'caring' society characterized by a high degree of social, racial, religious and intergenerational harmony – a melting pot of cultures and a model of peace and integration for the whole world.

In line with its values, principles and vision, the ECCE Framework has the following Goals:

1. Realign ECCE policies and programmes to respond to new research and international recommendations on the holistic needs of children from birth to 7+years.
2. Progressively expand access to a variety of affordable, developmentally appropriate and family responsive ECCE facilities especially for children aged 0 to 3.
3. Introduce new financing mechanisms to increase investment and resources in ECCE (public and private)
4. Improve and expand training, accreditation and professional development of ECCE professionals
5. Review and strengthen mechanisms for early detection and intervention to reduce educational and social inequalities
6. Improve accountability and service delivery in ECCE
7. Build family and child friendly communities
8. Provide comprehensive quality parenting programmes accessible to all parents from conception onwards
9. Promote research in ECCE.

Key Priorities and Strategies of the ECCE Framework

For each Goal (also referred to as priorities in the Framework and below) a number of strategies have been specified. They provide broad directions and establish the basis for the actions elaborated in Part 2 of this document. All the strategies listed below are expected to contribute to the attainment of the Goals of ECCE. They imply a multi-sectoral approach to implementation, requiring greater integration and co-ordination of EC services across sectors. This can only be done through enhanced collaboration, responsibility and shared commitment by all stakeholders involved.

The following nine pages outline all the strategies of the ECCE Framework, with an indication of the lead implementing agencies involved in each. To ensure successful implementation it is necessary to further prioritise the strategies on the basis of short, medium and longer term actions. The prioritizing process is explained in the Methodology section on page 24.

From Strategies to Actions – Approach and Methodology

In order to implement the strategies a prioritization exercise had to be done to determine short, medium and longer term actions to be undertaken by the different partners. Funds had to be mobilized and mechanisms put in place to ensure the effective implementation of the ECCE Framework. This first National Action Plan for ECCE for the period 2013 - 2014 is the culmination of the work done so far and it focuses on short term actions while anticipating medium and longer term goals.

The methodology used for the development of the National Action Plan took into account the multi-sectoral nature of ECCE provision by adopting a multi-level and co-ordinated approach to the process. It has also strived to maintain the centrality of the child and her/his entitlements in all aspects of the plans.

The first steps were the appointment of the high level National ECCE Policy Committee, chaired by the Vice President and including the ministers for Health, Education, Social Affairs, Community Development and Sports, Finance, and the Ambassador for Women and Children. An ECCE Advisory Council was also established to provide professional advice to the high level committee, on ECCE issues and future plans. At the same time a new Institute for Early Childhood Development (IECD) was set up to provide leadership in ECCE and co-ordinate the implementation of ECCE policies and programmes. A Trust Fund for ECCE was also put in place to maximize the financial resourcing of ECCE from both government and the private sector.

Following the Government's endorsement of the national ECCE Framework in October 2011, a number of technical teams were set up at sector level, namely within the Ministries of Education, Health, Social Affairs, Community Development and Sports and Finance. Their mandate was to examine the strategies, select priority areas and develop action plans for each area. These action plans have been integrated into the National Action Plan for ECCE, in line with the recommendations of the Framework. Co-ordination of the work of the technical teams was done by a Co-ordinating Committee led by the CEO of the IECD, and comprising the chairperson of each team. The Committee met regularly to assist with the co-ordination and harmonization of the sector-based action plans and ensure consistency, coherence and multi-level participation in the action planning process.

From the start of 2012 the technical teams have been meeting to prioritise the ECCE strategies for further development into sector level action plans. Their work gained greater impetus with the establishment of the IECD during that year. They consulted sector-wide and produced first drafts of action plans towards the end of 2012/ beginning of 2013. The plans were then presented to the senior management teams of the different Ministries involved and they were reviewed in the light of the feedback received. It was important to ensure that the action plans were in line with the Ministries' own plans and to obtain support for the ECCE action plans at senior management levels.

The next stage involved a pre-validation consultative process where the draft action plans were presented to small groups of first line stakeholders – people from the lead Ministries who will have a direct input into the implementation of the plans. This was to ensure the engagement of critical stakeholders at an early stage in the planning process. The amended action plans were thereafter submitted to the ECCE Advisory Council for comments and advice before the validation workshop of 22nd February 2013.

A wide range of stakeholders, from both the public and private sectors, were represented at the validation workshop (see list of participants at Annex 2). Their contributions were subjected to a post-validation exercise (held on 5th March 2013) involving the members of the technical teams, and the action plans were revised accordingly.

Action Plans for 2013 - 2014

The Actions Plans in this section are based on a number of selected strategies under each of the nine priorities/goals of the ECCE Framework. These strategies have been chosen on the basis of wide consultation by the Technical Teams and they are linked to the sectoral plans of the different Ministries and other initiatives already underway. While the Action Plans are presented at the level of sectors, the activities proposed are to a large extent collaborative and often cross cutting. They also include activities that engage with NGOs, the local and wider communities. The Action Plans have the following expected outcomes:

- ✚ Harmonised laws, regulations, policies and guidelines which should ensure that all sectors cater effectively for the needs of the age group 0 to 7+ years
- ✚ Standard terminologies used by all stakeholders and partners in early childhood
- ✚ Comprehensive child-friendly programmes which cater effectively for the holistic development of children from 0 to 7+ years
- ✚ All teachers incorporate “child centered’ and rights based’ approaches in curriculum planning and delivery.
- ✚ Approved budget allocation which will adequately cater for all ECCE resources
- ✚ Qualified and competent ECCE personnel who can contribute towards the development and well being of children from 0 to 7+ years.
- ✚ Comprehensive profiling system which allows for early detection and effective intervention
- ✚ All parents are aware of established procedures and can access services to seek advice and help for their children
- ✚ Completion of two new district Day Care Centres in response to community needs catering for 50 - 60 Children each
- ✚ Authorities better informed of needs and expectation of parents with regards to child minding services, and increased opportunities for EC aged children and parents at District level
- ✚ Increased targeted activities for children within the EC age group during school holidays and after school activities
- ✚ Established Early Childhood Community Councils in Districts

- ✚ Increased access and improved contact (in a physically and emotionally safe environment) for children not living with their parent(s)
- ✚ Improved support to children at risk
- ✚ Timely interventions for newborns and their parents
- ✚ Established screening procedures to determine suitability of prospective ECCE practitioners
- ✚ Improved quality of child minding services
- ✚ Enhanced quality of parenting programmes
- ✚ Strong comprehensive policies enacted providing optimal access to reproductive, maternal, newborn and child health care
- ✚ Improved access for every child to effective aids, ensuring the fulfillment of their potentials and improved learning
- ✚ Comprehensive profile of every child available, ensuring shared information with all stakeholders
- ✚ Well designed screening programme for pre-crèche and second year crèche and P1 children ensuring effective intervention
- ✚ Early detection and intervention programmes for hearing impairments available and implemented by all sectors
- ✚ Early detection and intervention programmes available and implemented by all sectors
- ✚ Maternal and Child care strengthened through improved breast feeding.

The estimated costs of implementing the action plans and achieving the expected outcomes are included in each plan. The table that follows provides a summary of total costs for the following development areas across sectors. It is expected that funds will be obtained from a variety of sources, including the ECCE Trust Fund, regional and international donor agencies (as detailed in the action plans).

Development Areas	Estimated Costs SR
1. Programmes	SR 6,408,500
2. Infrastructure	SR 5,250,000
3. Training & Professional Development	SR 1,571,000

Part 3

Implementation Strategies

Co-ordination and management mechanisms

The implementation of the National Action Plan for ECCE 2013-2014 is the responsibility of all partners involved in the planning process so far, along with all other stakeholders specified in the action plans. The lead bodies are the high level ECCE Policy Committee, in consultation with the ECCE Advisory Council, the Institute of Early Childhood Development (IECD) and the Co-ordinating Committee comprising the chairpersons of the Technical Teams, and headed by the CEO of the IECD.

At a first level the Technical Teams are expected to ensure the implementation of the action plans sector-wide, as well as in collaboration with other sectors. Team chairpersons will report on progress to their Principal Secretaries who in turn will brief their Ministers as necessary. They will also report to the Co-ordinating Committee on a regular basis, at least monthly.

The technical team chairpersons, in their capacity as members of the Co-ordinating Committee, will ensure collaboration and maintain necessary linkages with the different sectors, the IECD and the National ECCE Policy Committee. The Co-ordinating Committee will regularly monitor and review the implementation of the actions plans and formally report (ie presenting written reports) on a quarterly basis to the National ECCE Policy Committee as well as to the line ministries. The IECD will provide support and guidance to all partners in the implementation process, as it becomes fully operational.

The diagram below illustrates the co-ordinating and management structure for the implementation of the Plan and the links between the technical teams and the lead bodies:

Co-ordinating and Management Structure

The High Level ECCE Policy Committee is chaired by the Vice President and it includes the ministers for Health, Education, Social Affairs, Community Development and Sports, Finance, and the Ambassador for Women and Children. Its main role is to administer and oversee the implementation of the ECCE Framework, along with all action plans that derive from the Framework.

The Institute for Early Childhood Development (IECD) is a newly established independent entity with responsibility to provide leadership and strategic direction for developments in early childhood. It will ensure the co-ordination of the action plans and help in strengthening collaboration among sectors dealing with ECCE.

The ECCE Advisory Council provides professional advice to the National ECCE Policy Committee and the IECD on ECCE issues, present and future plans. Its members are from all sectors involved in ECCE and they are experienced professionals in that field.

Five Technical Teams set up within the Ministries of Education, Health, Social Affairs, Community Development and Sports and Finance undertook the selection of priority areas outlined in the ECCE Framework and they have developed the action plans contained in this document. They will lead in the implementation of the action plans, guided by the Co-ordinating Committee. This Committee is chaired by the CEO of the IECD, and its members are the chairpersons of the technical teams.

Monitoring and Evaluation

The multi-sectoral nature of the National Action Plan for ECCE implies that monitoring and evaluation has to take place at different levels and across a wide range of groups and institutions. Robust mechanisms therefore need to be established to ensure the Plan is effectively implemented and results evaluated. The following committees and groups will have the responsibilities outlined below:

ECCE Policy Committee

The high level ECCE Policy Committee will oversee and guide the implementation of the National Action Plan, while ensuring adherence and commitment to the ECCE vision. It will receive quarterly reports from the Co-ordinating Committee, on the basis of which it will recommend necessary adjustments and further actions. The ECCE Policy Committee will produce biennial reports on the state of ECCE nationally, which will map out the progress being made in relation to the agreed goals and priorities, the bottlenecks encountered and recommendations for moving forward. The report will be presented to Cabinet and circulated to all government ministries and agencies, as well as to other non-state partners involved in ECCE. In the course of its work the Committee will regularly consult with and seek the advice of the ECCE Advisory Council.

ECCE Advisory Council

The ECCE Advisory Council will provide advice and guidance on ECCE related issues, especially social and environmental factors that may influence children's health, education, development and well being. They will examine the technical teams' reports, offer advice and evidence-based solutions to problems and bottlenecks identified. The Council will also advise its partners on new developments in ECCE and share research findings and good practice.

Institute of Early Childhood Development (IECD)

The IECD, once it becomes fully operational, will support and monitor the implementation of the National Action Plan through data collection and management, facilitating capacity development, standard setting and the dissemination of information on ECCE nationally. It may also commission research that may inform policy and future developments in ECCE. The work of the Institute will consistently promote a collaborative and holistic approach to ECCE. It is therefore important that it establishes strong partnerships with all line ministries, ECCE related agencies and education institutions such as University of Seychelles.

In particular the IECD will play a leading role in ensuring the harmonization of laws, regulations, policies and guidelines that should enable all sectors to cater more effectively for the needs of the age group 0 to 7+ years (Refer to the first plan under Priority/Goal 1, Strategy (a) of all the sectors).

Co-ordinating Committee

The Co-ordinating Committee for the National Action Plan will oversee and guide the work of the Technical Teams in the implementation of the sectoral action plans. The chairperson of each Technical Team and the CEO of IECD will meet and report on progress monthly. In collaboration with the senior management teams at sector level and all other relevant partners, the Co-ordinating Committee will ensure that problems identified are addressed in a timely manner and the action plans are implemented accordingly. The Co-ordinating Committee will report to the ECCE Policy Committee and the Advisory Council at least half yearly, and it will act on their recommendations as appropriate. At the end of the planning cycle – end of 2014 – a thorough evaluation of the results of this Action Plan will be carried out.

Technical Teams

The Technical Teams will lead the implementation of the Action Plans within their sectors, in collaboration with other partners. They will need to establish or use existing monitoring mechanisms at sector level to ensure effective monitoring and reporting. They will also have the support of the Co-ordinating Committee, the IECD, the Advisory Council and other sector partners in carrying out this role.

At all levels, the implementation of the Actions Plans is to be guided by the Principles of the ECCE Framework which should also serve as benchmarks against which the indicators of success should be measured. However, it will also be necessary to develop, at an early stage in the monitoring process, more specific indicators related to particular activities intending to deliver quality service. Such activities include the health and social programmes dealing with early intervention, screening, profiling, and baby friendly initiatives.

Conclusion

This National Action Plan for ECCE is the first in a series of initiatives that will put the ECCE Framework into action. It is strengthened by the fact that the Framework has received the commitment of all the sectors involved, through the pledge made by the Vice President and the Ministers for Social Affairs, Community Development and Sports, Education and Health. The mechanisms that have been put in place to lead and guide its implementation should also help to ensure its success.

Critical success factors

The successful implementation of the National Action Plan for ECCE is dependent on a number of factors, namely:

- The commitment of Government and all other primary stakeholders to ECCE as a national and cross-sectoral initiative. This is important as ECCE cuts across a number of services provided by various sectors which can only succeed by placing the child at the centre of all service delivery.
- The government and its partners in ECCE have to ensure that appropriate resources – especially financial resources – are put in place to support the implementation of the Action Plan and the achievement of the goals of the ECCE Framework.
- Appropriate mechanisms have to be put in place to enable ECCE professionals and institutions to initiate international collaboration and access international funding for ECCE projects.
- All stakeholders have to move towards building integrated practices that can respond to the needs of children in a holistic manner, using a rights-based approach.
- The carrying out of a thorough risk analysis to identify and so anticipate possible hindrances to the implementation of the action plans.
- All ECCE initiatives have to enhance the participation of parents and obtain their 'buy-in'. As the first line care-givers parents have to be involved at all stages in all ECCE plans and their implementation.
- High quality initial and continuous professional development of all ECCE professionals has to remain on the ECCE agenda throughout.
